Fact and Comment

One of our Club members, Mr. E. B. Webster of Port Angeles, Wn., has recently published a book entitled "The King of the Olympics." The volume consists of stories dealing primarily with the Roosevelt Elk (Cervus Roosevelti), together with other mammals of the Olympic Peninsula. The writer does not attempt to present a scientific treatise, "nor so-called nature stories, based upon tradition and embellished with imagination." They simply (as he states in his preface) "record the observations of a number of nature lovers, men who have spent the greater portion of their lives in the Olympics, and whose interest and accuracy of observation is beyond question." The editor of "The Murrelet" feels quite sure that the members of the Club will be more than repaid if they read this little volume of Mr. Webster which contains many interesting stories and notes of observations on the animals of the region not heretofore published.

The edition of the first number of the "Murrelet" is exhausted. On account of the demand from the new members for copies of this issue, it is planned to run off some reprints of the same, so that all members who did not receive the first number may secure one by writing to the Editor or Secretary. Members wishing extra copies of any number of the Murrelet may secure same at a cost of Twenty-five Cents per copy.

Following is a list of those who have become members of the Club since the last list was published in the May issue of "The Murrelet:"
